Para 4: Possible formation of an ex-soldiers political party

Guderian mentioned the possibility of forming a political party. When it was pointed out to him that no personality had yet appeared who was strong enough to hold the various groups together, and that the only right-wing party which had used the right tactics was the SRP, Guderian remarked that there could be no question of using that party, in which REMER, whom he knew personally, was merely a tool in the hands of DORLS. He then admitted in a round-about way that he would be willing to accept the leadership of the kind of right-wing party he had in mind. Baron von STEIN had already tried to get him to do this, and had wanted to organize a meeting in Frankfurt to which several ex-generals, and also NEUMANN* and AXMANN were to have been invited. GUDERIAN, however, thought it better to visit personally all those to be invited.

* Possibly identical with Dr. Werner NAUMANN, former State-Secretary in GOEBBEL's Ministry of Propaganda, who now maintains clandestine contact with AXMANN and FRANKE-GRICKSCH's DEUTSCHE BRUDERSCHAFT.
